

To Whom it May Concern,

This letter is written in recommendation of the talents of Bindu Sadder. In September of 2015 we hired Bindu to cover a 1-year Maternity Leave as an Art Director. For the year that Bindu worked with our team she continuously proved her exemplary creative skills while also developing excellent leadership skills.

When Bindu joined our team, she had big shoes to fill and quickly proved that she was an important resource. She was always quick to establish efficient and creative work processes and worked well under tight deadlines. She led the effort as Art Director on several projects and was wonderful when working with the team on all bases; brainstorming, organizing, designing, and producing.

Bindu is well versed in both print and online design, and has impressed our clients with creating well-conceived design themes. She has been excellent at maintaining consistency in our client's brands, as well as our company's brand standards.

I'd like to recommend Bindu to any employer who is seeking a creative, cheerful, and focused employee who has proven to be a respected, motivating team member. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Claude Dumoulin
